

Catch The Message:
Female Gestalt therapists in Interview

Adriena Feckova and Jay Levin (eds)

Adriena Feckova and I are pleased to announce the publication of our book Catch The Message which has been in process now for two long years.

Adriena and I have been working on a project of interviews with women who we believe have made a contribution to the theory and practice of Gestalt therapy. Adriena conceived this idea and asked me to participate with the development and completion of her idea. We wanted to celebrate and acknowledge the unique input that so many women have made to Gestalt therapy theory and practice by publishing this book with appreciation and thanks to each and all of the women who have participated in the development of Gestalt therapy. Not everyone could be initially included and we would have loved to take in more interviews. Maybe another one to come?

Brian O'Neill has kindly agreed to publish the book under the label of Ravenwood Press, which has already published a number of books related to Gestalt therapy theory and practice.

The book is now available at CreateSpace <https://www.createspace.com/5082579> and will be available on Amazon and Amazon Europe and Amazon Worldwide within 4-7 days.
